

Please join me at my FREE writing workshop:

Whisper, Don't Shout

May 15, 2021 at 1 p.m. Eastern time

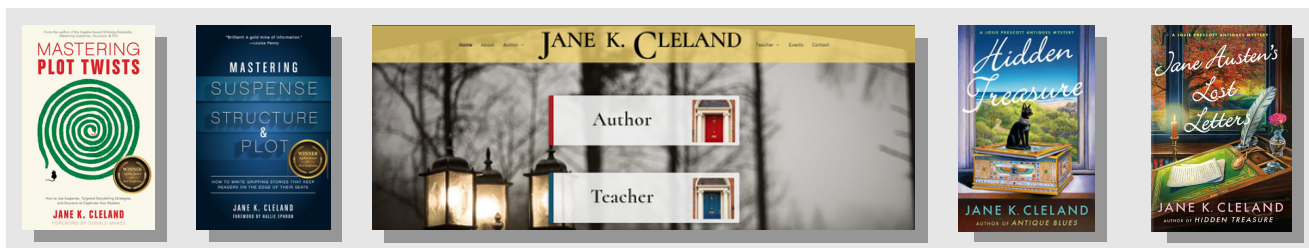

The next FREE workshop in the "We're All in It Together" workshop series

If you were able to attend any of my previous workshops in this series, you know we came together as a writing community to cover various nuts and bolts writing topics. I love hanging out with writers! Want to join me?

Here are the details about this FREE one-hour workshop Whisper, Don't Shout on May 15, 2021, at 1 p.m. Eastern time. Drawing your readers in—quietly—creates more suspenseful moments than bludgeoning them with overly brash reveals. Don't have a character shout, "There's a gun!" Let your readers hear the click as the safety is removed. You'll learn how to convert labeling words like "heard," "saw," and "noticed," into incidents that show the emotion.

If you're interested, sign up here, and I'll send you what you need to access the workshop. I'd love it if you could help me spread the word about my free workshops by sharing this flyer via email or on social media. Tell your friends! Invite your writer's group! How about your book club? Readers welcome, too! Thank you so much!

Until then, I hope you're finding solace and comfort through reading and writing.

www.janecleland.com ■ Free monthly webinars on the craft of writing. Register for free here.