Special Guest!

Adam Chromy is a published author, screenwriter, film/tv producer, and literary agent, operating his boutique New York City agency, Movable Type Management for more than 20 years.

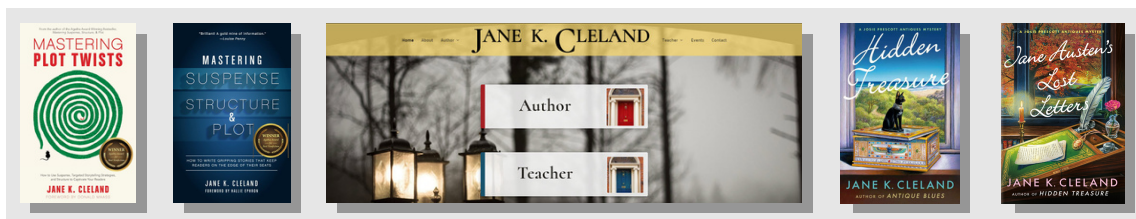

His "value-based storytelling" approach has made him a top player in New York City and Los Angeles and a frequent speaker at writing conferences.

During our discussion, we'll explore how the best agents don't simply bring attention to your books, but partner with you to help build momentum, hone your approach, and, ultimately, achieve greater levels of success.

Spend an hour with us on Saturday, June 17 at 1 p.m. Eastern time for this rare opportunity to get an inside look at the story development process and the agent-author relationship. There will be time for questions at the end.

You're welcome to sign up here, and I'll send you what you need to access the workshop.

Also, I'd love it if you could help me spread the word about my free workshops by sharing this flyer via email or social media. Tell your friends! Invite your writer's group or book club! Readers welcome, too! Thank you so much!
